

Setting Up & Using Appcompanist

Appcompanist is a wonderful resource for singers as a practice, audition, and lesson tool. Through the application and subscription, you will have access to thousands of piano accompaniment tracks for almost any song you can think of in the MT and classical canon. And, if they don't have a song you want, you can request that it be added! In general, I do not recommend purchasing "extra" singing tools (beyond voice lessons), but I am really a big fan of Appcompanist and utilize it frequently in my own practice as a singer. I am very excited to be able to offer my students a 25% off discount to subscriptions through my Voice Teacher subscription!

How to activate your discounted subscription:

Once I add your email as a "member" of my plan, you will receive an email from Appcompanist (noreply@accompanist.com) with the subject: "Your Access to Appcompanist Through Teacher Cowan's group." Use the enclosed link to create an Accompanist profile through their website using the same email address you are viewing the message from. If you use a different email, you will not receive the discount.

Once you make an account, go to the "Plans & Pricing" page. It should look like this —————> with the 25% off discount applied to all prices. You can toggle between monthly/yearly payment options.

Most students will probably find the Contemporary Voice Collection (this includes all musical theatre rep) to be the best fit, but Pick Six could also work if you don't anticipate using the app very often.

Using Appcompanist:

The Appcompanist website lays out how to use all their features HERE, so I’d highly recommend browsing the tutorials to figure out how to tailor the app’s features to your needs.

Some of my favorite features: transposing the key of a song, creating a custom version tailored to my tempo changes, turning up and down the melody track, and dropping markers at the beginning/end of a new section.
